STRONG LAW ARGUMENTS

EX-JUDGE ELLIOTT CALLS THE STAT-UTE A REMARKABLE ONE.

Appraisers Would Have to Fix High Values in Order to Get Their Pay.

Argument was heard in the Circuit Court yesterday in the injunction proceedings of William L. Baker against the city and the from the residence at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Board of Public Works. The suit was Attorney Carson, who called at the office brought by Attorneys Elliott & Elliott, of the Strong law, passed by the last Legislature. The law provides that before the Board of Public Works can undertake any street improvements appraisers must be appointed to ascertain the value of the property abutting the proposed improvements. | dollars yearly. The cost of the improvements must not exceed 25 per cent. of the property value. The law provides that three appraisers shall be selected. The Board of Works contemplated making some improvements on Central optics; glasses furnished; consultation and ex- | ting up the fact that he would be compelled ent and future of one's life. Gives them luck, uccess and happiness. 546 East South street. our best bicycle for $1 and a few hours' work cut | Baker would have to help pay for improvetions to the Board of Public Works. One petition containing 100 names would ask for a macadam pavement; another, containing 101 names, would request a granite pavement, and the third petition, with 102 names, would demand an asphalt pavement. Under the law the Board would probably "Suppose," said Mr. Elliott, "there is a square of rich men on a street who want a costly pavement, and on the intersecting street are some poor men-the kind that make a country. They are made to assist in paying for this pavement, and yet they are not permitted to raise their voices in favor of a cheaper one. Is that constitutional?" The Strong law provides that if the improvements are made the cost of appraising the property affected shall be taxed against provements. If the work is not ordered. necessarily follows that the appraisers will receive nothing for their work. In this case the plaintiff insists that this provision of the Strong law will have a tendency to cause appraisers to fix values sufficiently high to insure the improvements sought to be made, thus making their compensation sure. The attorneys assert that this provision might encourage men to make unfair appraisements. City Attorney Kern insists that all pre-sumptions are in favor of the validity of law. He holds that the Legislature, in passing the Strong law, had as its motive a desire to benefit property-owners, and having enacted a law that is for their good, they cannot be heard to complain. It is further insisted that the plaintiff, Baker, has failed to show where he will be in

Flack farm, a valuable piece of real estate situated about three miles northwest of the city, on the Crawfordsville made in 1893 and to quiet the title to the Flack farm in its original owner. There are about eighty acres in the real estate in question. John S. Flack; it is related, has been married twice and is the father of nine children, all of whom are living. In April, 1893, as the story goes, Joseph | Judgment against claimant for costs. Flack, a brother of John S. Flack, came to the conclusion that it would be to the best children have expressed themselves as willing to waive all claim to the property under the deed. In fact, his wife a few days ago took steps looking to the reconveyance of ier interest back to her husband and she is not a party to the suit. The matter could be adjusted out of court were it not for the fact that there are three minor children, who cannot consult their own wishes about he matter. This feature of the case must be adjudicated by the court. As to the other children, they are all anxious for the title to the farm to be quieted in their father. However, it is claimed that a son-in-law of Mr. Flack stands in the way and objects o his wife giving up her share. The attorneys say that Joseph Flack, in nducing his brother to transfer the property, felt that he was doing the right thing in the interests of his brother's family. The children say that since the transfer was made their father has grown very steady in his habits and they think he should again

THE RICHCREEK CONCERN. Validity of Its Acts Questioned-Story

a Lawyer Tells. The question of the validity of the acts of the Indiana Bond Company as a corporawithin a short time. This company has an Barrett-law bonds. B. F. Richcreek is president, and C. I. Richereck is secretary. Attorneys are claiming that the Indiana Bond Company cannot legally bring a suit as a corporation. Attorney Oliver H. Carson has filed a plea in abatement in answer to one of the company's suits in which he asserts that the concern is not a corpora-

the company a right to exist is part of an amendment to an act that the Legislature had repealed a short time before the amendment was passed. The fight against the bond company will be based on this contention. Attorneys say that in attacking the company their purpose is not to keep their clients from having to pay off Barrettlaw bonds, but to protect them from exorbitant attorney's fees. It is asserted that the bond company does not deal entirely in Barrett bonds, but also brings suits to collect sweeping and sprinkling assessments. One attorney says that there are instances where suit has been brought to collect a 50-cent assessment which resulted in a cost of from $8 to $10 to the defendant. Attorney Carson has a client who lives in California. Some time ago he received a notice that he owed street improvements amounting to $18 and that including the court costs there was due from him the sum of $43. The California man wrote to of the Indiana Bond Company and asked for the number of the case in which his client and it directly attacks the constitutionality | was defendant. He says he was told that the number would be sent to him later in the day. The attorney afterward learned that at the time he called on the bond company the suit had not been brought and there were no court costs. Later, however, the suit was filed. Attorneys say that the bond company is clearing up thousands of The Girouds' Trouble. Elizabeth Giroud is suing Ferdinand Giroud for a divorce in the Superior Court. They were married in 1895. The plaintiff charges that on Easter Sunday her husband, while intoxicated, assaulted her. She says he tried to strike her with a stick of and Broadway. He brought suit to enjoin stove wood. On another occasion, she avers, riage. She says he has also tried to drive her away from home. She asks for alimony in the sum of $1,000.

As to County Superintendents.

Some question has been raised as to the constitutionality of the clause in the law enacted by the last Legislature which requires that county superintendents shall possess a thirty-six months' license or a life or professional license. It is claimed by some that this is class legislation and is discrimination in favor of those now in office. The clause was put in by design, as been trying for years to have a standard fixed for county superintendents. Should this clause be tested and declared unconsti in the law.

A PETITION TO VACATE HIS COUNCIL-MANIC OFFICE BURIED.

Three Ninth Ward Patriots Were "Agin" Him-Chenoweth Light Franchise Killed.

The Council meeting last night, at which all but Messrs. Bowser. Costello and Scanlon were present, was one of the most uninteresting on record, nearly all the time being taken up in reading the Chenoweth Light and Power Company's ordinance, although it was known in advance that it would be killed. Mr. Colter called it up in order to dispose of it for good and told of the purposes of the committee in recommending its repudiation as aiready published. Mr. Madden asked that the ordinance be sent back to the Board of Works in order that the company might amend it to meet the requirements of the city, but as his motion failed to receive a second, the death of the Chenoweth Light and Power Company franchise was accomplished

The only thing that enlivened the session was the introduction of a petition from S. D. De Fuze, M. Robinius and Lee P. Finehout, of the Ninth ward, asking that Councilman Frank S. Clark be unseated. The petition was evidently drawn up with the hope of attracting many signatures, but the three names above were all that were attached when it was read in the Council chamber. The petition is as follows:

"Whereas we, the undersigned petitioners, resident citizens and qualified voters of the Ninth ward of the city of Indian-633.28 and his assets amount to $191, all of apolis. Ind., would respectfully represent and have your honorable body know, and be informed that Frank S. Clark, who claims to represent said ward in the Common Council of said city is not entitled to sit and have a vote therein for the reason "That said Frank S. Clark did on or about the right to select the material for the paveservice of the United States as a commissioned officer therein, to wit: As second lieutenant in the Second United States Volunteer Engineers, and did take upon himself the oath of said office of sec ond lieutenant, and did then and there and by said act and oath of office vacate, renounce and forever abandon said office of councilman aforesaid, and did then and there and thereafter absent himself from said city and from said Council chamber, and did abstain from discharging any of the duties of councilman, and was in a foreign land, in Cuba, for a long period of time, to wit, for six months. And does still continue to be, and is in said military service and in the discharge of the duties of the office aforesaid. "Wherefore, your petitioners pray that said seat shall be declared vacant and that henceforth the said Frank S. Clark be barred and denied the right to participate in the deliberations of said Council or to vote therein. And this your petitioners will ever pray.

Hardly had the paper been read when Councilman Colter jumped to his feet and said: "Mr. President, I move you that that thing be thrown in the waste basket." As he sat down several other councilmen seconded the motion, which was carried without a dissenting vote. The ordinance prohibiting expressmen from soliciting business, except within ten feet from their vehicles, was passed with the amendment that any express company which maintains an office in any building, may be allowed to solicit in any part of the building. The amendment was inserted for the benefit of the Frank Bird Transfer Company in order that its agents may so licit business in the Union Station. On Controller Johnson's recommendation the following appropriations were referred to the finance committee: $4,200 for the improvement of the proposed market space at Market and Alabama streets; $400 to repair and purchase wheels for the bicycle patrolmen; $200 for the use of the G. A. R in observing Memorial day, and $3,100 with which to purchase four and one-half acres on the northwest corner of Garfield Park.

Places for All Graduates. Drs. Heath, Lockridge, Crose, Harvey Tomlin and Denson, the examiners of the civil-service board, had little to do with selecting the hospital and dispensary internes yesterday. There were nine applicants and nine places to be filled and, after a short examination in physiology, the candidates decided not to compete, but to accept the assignments made by the board as follows: City Hospital-Drs. Samuel Robert Cunningham, John Quincy Davis, Clark Rogers and Harry Kemper Langdon. City Dispensary-Drs. James Barden Griffiths, Aubrey Leighton Loop, Robert M. Todd and Dr. Karshner. Bobbs Dispensary—Drs. Royal Gerrard and Cyrus W. Rutherford. Vincent's Hospital-Dr. Robert Francis Hester. Dr. Spencer, of the City Dispensary, will file a protest with the board at its next meeting against accepting the assignment of Dr. Karschner to his department on account of personal reasons. New Market Space Plans. The Board of Works yesterday approved the plans of City Engineer Jeup for the erection of market stands at the corner of Market and Alabama streets. The plans were outlined in the Journal several days ago, and are designed to accommodate 192 vendors who will have room to drive their wagons between the twelve rows of stands and unload instead of allowing their wagons to obstruct all the streets in the vicinity of Tomlinson Hall as at present. The appropriation ordinance covering the matter was introduced in the Council last night.

TO OBTAIN BETTER JURORS.

Justice Smock Inaugurates a Reform in Justices' Courts.

Justice Smock has made a new ruling for his court relative to trials by jury. All persons desiring jury trials are now required to give one day's notice to the court. Justice Smock says this is for the purpose of enabling juries to be drawn from a more respectable class of citizens than is possible to obtain after the demand is made at the trial, when, of necessity, the jurors are mostly barroom loafers, who, looking to the payment of their fees, are invariably prejudiced in favor of the parties interested who have the most money.

Colored People's Promenade.

To-night at Tomlinson Hall the colored people of the city will have a promenade concert, arranged by William Miller. The hall will be decorated with the national colors, palms and flowers, and refreshments will be served from booths. An orchestra, a band and vocal soloists will give the concert. Mrs. Charles Lanier and F. Fowler Brown will sing the prison scene from "Il Trovatore;" Mrs. Elwood C. Knox, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hunt, William Doodall, Mrs. S. L. Robinson, Gertrude S. Garett and the Plunger Quartet will also sing. R. Byron Shelton will be musical director and Maurice F. White master of ceremonies.

A Junk Dealer Arrested. Meyer Leibsitz, a junk dealer, 909 South Illinois street, is locked up at the police station, charged with drunkenness. The city ambulance was called to Ellis & Helfenberger's foundry about 6 o'clock last evening, where Leibsitz was found lying on the pavement unconscious. He had been thrown from his wagon, striking his head on the curbstone.

North Manchester Interlocking Switch The Wabash Railroad Company yesterday filed a petition with the auditor of state to locate an interlocking switch at North Manchester, at the crossing of the Big Four. Baker owns a piece of property on Seventeenth street, between Park avenue the Board from taking further action, set- he tried to kill her child by a former marto pay for improvements at Central avenue and Seventeenth street because of the location of his property on the latter thoroughfare. He based his suit on the alleged unconstitutionality of the Strong law. The main contention of the plaintiff's atterneys is that the law discriminates against certain property-owners who would be affected by street improvements. "It is a remarkable statute," said ex-Judge Elliott yesterday, "and there is no other like it in the United States." It is contended that while ments, he would have no voice in saying what kind of improvements should be made. ment. The attorneys point out that the property-owners might present three peti-

THE JOHN S. FLACK FARM. People in Whose Interest It Was A suit was brought in Room 3, Superior Court, yesterday, which involves the title pike. The suit is to set aside a conveyance interests of his brother to have his farm conveyed to his wife in such a way that at her death it would go to his children. It was the plan of Joseph Flack to have estate. the property conveyed to him in trust and le in turn would deed it to his sister-inlaw. On April 5, 1893, this conveyance was made. It is said that on that day Joseph Flack drove out to his brother's farm with papers already prepared for the latter to sign. The children of John S. Flack, it is claimed, were asked to leave the two men to themselves. The assertion is now made by John S. Flack that he did not realize what he was signing until after his brother had gone. He says Joseph Flack read a long document to him and requested him to place his signature to it. He did so and his brother soon afterward drove away. The atforneys say that one of the daughters of John S. Flack, being unduly curious as to what was transpiring between her father and uncle in that closed room, stood at the door and listened to the reading of the deed of conveyance. As soon as her uncle had gone she hastened to relate to her father what she had heard and he immediately realized that he had signed away his farm. He had one of his horses hitched up and started to town, but arrived about a half hour after the deed had been recorded. In due time Joseph Flack conveyed the farm to his sister-in-law with the provision that she was to have a life interest in the land and at her death the nine children of John S. Flack were to come ir to possession of it. On the deed there was a marginal note to the effect that he should have a home at the death of his wife should he survive her. Lately, it is said, John S. Flack has worried a great deal about the manner in which his farm was disposed of and his wife and come into possession of his own.
